Czar Floors Wins Three NWFA Wood Floor of the Year Awards

ST. LOUIS, Missouri (April 30, 2007) – The National Wood Flooring Association is pleased to announce that Czar Floors, Newtown, Pennsylvania, won the Best Library/Office, the Best Restoration, and the Best Commercial/Showroom categories in the NWFA's 2007 Wood Floor of the Year Contest. The awards were presented during the NWFA's convention in Denver, Colorado, April 10 - 13.

The Best Library/Office category features wood flooring installations appearing in libraries, offices, studies, or dens, in a residential setting. The Best Restoration category features all types of restorations, repairs, or refinishes, in either a residential or commercial application. The Best Commercial/Showroom category features wood flooring installations appearing in commercial applications, including showrooms, sports floors, public spaces, and commercial businesses.

This year's competition yielded 215 entries from six countries, including the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, Australia, Malaysia, and the Czech Republic. Winning entries were judged by members of the NWFA through on-line voting during March.

The National Wood Flooring Association is a non-profit trade organization of more than 4,100 wood flooring professionals working worldwide to educate consumers, architects, designers, and builders in the uses and benefits of wood flooring. The NWFA can be contacted at 111 Chesterfield Industrial Blvd., Chesterfield, MO 63005, or at 800-422-4556 (USA), 800-848-8824 (Canada), or 636-530-0682 (international).
